

Celebrating World Poetry Day

If you're happy and you know it... youngsters join in the wordplay with poet John Hegley on World Poetry Day

MORE than 70 youngsters were captivated with a performance by children's author John Hegley to mark

World Poetry Day. They packed into Hackney Central Library on 22 March to be entertained by songs from Hegley's 'Animal Alphabet'. Mum Sarah Girvan said: "John Hegley is awesome. We love the library – great entertainment, free computer services and loads of brilliant books." The Council is keeping all eight of its libraries open with a budget of over £8million in 2011/2012 for the service. For more pictures see pg7

EVERYBODY COUNTS

RESIDENTS across the borough have been returning their census forms in a bid to make this the most successful population survey ever – helping to secure vital funding for services in Hackney.

Information collected during the 2011 Census will be used by the Government to calculate how much money each area in the country receives for key services such as housing, public transport, health and education.

Jules Pipe, Mayor of Hackney, said: "I urge everyone to return their completed census as soon as possible. In these difficult financial times, it is more important than ever that our borough receives all the funding it's due for the services that everyone relies on."

Events run by the voluntary and community sector; helpdesks in libraries; and volunteer helpers in Council receptions all saw a surge of people getting assistance to fill in their forms before the official Census Day on Sunday 27 March.

However, it's not too late for residents to do their bit for the borough, because the deadline to return forms by post or online to the Office for National Statistics is 6 May.

Glen Watson, Census 2011 director, added: "Having responses from over 13million households nationally already is really great, but we want everyone else to make sure they are counted, too."

From 6 April, census collectors will be visiting every household that hasn't yet returned a form, to offer advice, or issue a new one if needed. They will also be reminding people that they are required by law to complete the census.

Everybody living in a property must be included on a form, regardless of nationality. The information is kept confidential by law and can't be shared with the Council or any other organisation. At the last census in 2001, more than 25 per cent of households in Hackney didn't return their questionnaire, which meant the borough lost out on £57million of Government funding in the last year alone.

Residents who haven't received a form, or need a replacement, can visit the census website, or call the helpline, which also provides support for people if they are having problems completing the form. Hackney libraries staff are also on hand to help.

Last year's colourful parade was a great success, with crowds being treated to some very eye-catching costumes & performances

With only four months to the borough's brightest annual festival, there's a final chance to apply for Council funding to perform at Hackney One Carnival 2011.

Last year over 8,000 residents and visitors lined the streets to watch the colourful parade to Hackney Downs. More than 1,000 performers from 20 carnival and community groups showcased lavish costumes and entertaining dances to create a party atmosphere.

Now the Council is offering grants of between £500 and £3,000 to groups wanting to perform in the Carnival procession on 7 August.

The money can be used to fund troupes that work with the borough's diverse communities.

Applications close on 8 April. For more info, call: 020 8356 3478; or e-mail: silke.pillinger@hackney.gov.uk

On your bike

MORE than 50 bikes were chipped for free, courtesy of the Hackney Community Safety team, at a bike awareness day on Warburton and Darcy Estate.

Cyclists from the E8 estate and beyond found out about new on-site bike lockers, learnt bike safety and maintenance tips, and got a chance to participate in a slow bike race.

A Council recycling team was also present, giving advice on sustainability at home.

Cllr Feryal Demirci, Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, said: "It is nice to see residents of all ages getting involved in cycling. Events such as this highlight the benefits of cycling for our health, as well as our environment."

The event on 12 March was organised by the Council and Hackney Homes.

If you are a new cyclist or want information about cycling in the borough, contact the Council's Sustainable Transport Team on: 020 8356 8069; or e-mail: movegreener@hackney.gov.uk

Before Strictly Come Dancing was even a twinkle in the BBC's eye, dancers have been coming to the newly renovated Stoke Newington Town Hall.

It recently hosted a tea dance on 23 March which saw around 130 people from Hackney and beyond tango, foxtrot, waltz and line dance their way through DJ Mr Wonderful's music back catalogue.

NHS staff from Hackney were also on hand to offer health checks and advice on well-being.

More than 10 Council organised tea dances have taken place in the Town Hall in the past year.

Although the event is open to all, most attendees have been aged over 50, with the most senior being 100. Cabinet Member for Community Services, Cllr Jonathan McShane, said: "There's a whole generation of people who are able to do these incredible ballroom dances. It's part of our agenda to enable people to live healthily and independently in the borough. Many regulars come because they're enthusiastic about dancing and it helps to keep them fit."

Message from the Mayor

Make the census count

I WOULD like to thank all residents who have completed their census questionnaire and returned it since Census Day on Sunday, 27 March. To anyone who hasn't yet completed it, I urge you to fill it in so that Hackney receives the money it needs from central Government for services such as housing, public transport, health and education.

The census is run by the Office for National Statistics and takes place every ten years to count the UK's population. The figures are used by Government to allocate money between each area of the country to provide vital local services over the next decade or longer. The information helps to determine the amount of money each council receives to provide adult social care, youth services, children's centres, libraries, leisure centres, street cleaning and much more.

It also decides how much money goes to local NHS services such as doctors, dentists, opticians, pharmacists and hospitals. In these difficult financial times, it is more important than ever that our borough receives all the funding it's due for the services that everyone relies on.

During the last census in 2001, less than three quarters of Hackney residents filled in their forms. This has meant that the borough lost out on £57million of funding from central Government to deliver key services in the last year alone.

This time we need everyone to fill in their census so please do your bit by completing your form and explaining to your friends, families and colleagues why they should do the same. A small amount of time filling in the form will make a big difference to our borough's services – now and in the future.

Let's take control

THE Council is planning a public consultation this Spring on proposals to tackle irresponsible dog ownership in Hackney.

The survey aims to find out the views of dog owners, professional dog walkers, and anyone with an interest in the possible introduction of several proposed Dog Control Orders. The consultation forms part of a wider responsible dog ownership programme, run by the Council in partnership with Hackney Homes and Dogs Trust.

Over the last 12 months, staff from the charity have attended over 50 events in parks, housing estates, youth clubs and schools to speak with dog owners.

More than 1,500 residents benefited from advice on how to look after their dogs, including free microchipping and dog training.

The programme was initiated in response to feedback from residents who are concerned by the small number of What is a Dog Control Order?

The Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act 2005 gives local authorities various powers to tackle irresponsible dog ownership. These are called Dog Control Orders (DCOs), and councils can use them to designate certain 'dog exclusion zones' and require dogs to be kept on leads in certain public places or where they are not under appropriate control by their owner.

owners that do not know how to control their dogs in public, allow them to act aggressively and damage the environment.

Cllr Sophie Linden, Cabinet Member for Crime, Sustainability and Customer Services, said: "The majority of dog owners in Hackney look after their pets responsibly. Through these events we will continue to support those who need help to control their dogs.

"However, there is a small minority of dog owners who allow their dogs to act aggressively, and exercise them without consideration for others.

"We are committed to working with partners to take action against these owners."

The next two public events for dog-owners are set to take place on 16 April, from 11am-4pm, at Butterfield Green, N16; and 4 May, from 2-6pm, at St John at Hackney Churchyard, E8.

Packed full of fun

Residents enjoyed a sunny fun day full of Caribbean food and face painting

Caribbean food and the first signs of springtime weather were the backdrop to a Hackney Homes fun day on Landfield estate.

Two days before the clocks went back, the event on the E5 estate was inspired by summer fetes, with traditional street food from England and around the world, as well as face painting for youngsters.

Residents also turned up to the 25 March fun day to meet their neighbours, find out how to get more involved in their community and speak to Hackney Homes staff about the services they receive.

George McGee, Chair of the Landfield Tenants and Residents Association, said: "We are so pleased with the day. There were lots of happy, smiley faces, just what we all need at this time of the year."

Rupert Tyson, Chair of Hackney Homes Board, which manages Council properties in the borough, said: "The spring sun came out on the day and residents of all ages took time to enjoy themselves in their neighbourhood."

News in brief

Resident banned from estate

A MAN has been banned from a Hackney estate for five years. Alston Lynch, 24, of Downs Road, E5, was given an Anti-Social Behaviour Order (ASBO) preventing him from entering Clapton Park estate until March 2016.

The prosecution came after Kings Park Safer Neighbourhoods policing teams, working with the Council, created a three-month dispersal zone on the estate last year, following complaints about anti-social behaviour from residents.

The zone gave police officers power to disperse groups whose presence was likely to cause harassment or distress. Thames Magistrates Court heard that Lynch had been part of a group that loitered on the estate for hours on end, intimidating members of the public. He was regularly moved on by police and arrested on numerous occasions for breaching instructions to leave the area.

Lynch was convicted of 'contravening a direction in a dispersal zone' and fined £100, plus £15 costs, on 22 March. A 'bolt on' ASBO was also granted by magistrates. For help with anti-social behaviour in your area, call the Council's helpline on: 020 8356 3030; or the Met Police non-emergency number: 0300 123 1212

Tribute to Elizabeth Taylor

ONE of London's oldest youth clubs is planning a tribute to screen legend Elizabeth Taylor after she helped save the venue from closure over 45 years ago.

Widely recognised for her philanthropy and charitable campaigning, the Hollywood icon donated £5,000 towards rebuilding the Pedro Club in Rushmore Road in 1965. The money was raised at a West End premiere of her film 'The Sandpiper'.

Founded in 1929 by Baroness Elliot of Harwood, the club was reopened in 1969 by Taylor, its then vice-president, and her husband Richard Burton.

The actress died last month, aged 79, and the club hopes to dedicate one room to her, with an image of the 1969 visit as a wall mural.

Hackney pupil impresses BBC

A 13-year-old student from Hackney Free and Parochial School grilled Hackney figures and impressed broadcast journalists during his spell with the BBC.

Working on BBC School Report, an annual project that sees pupils aged 11 to 14 research and air news stories on subjects that matter to them, Raymond chose crime and community safety in Hackney.

He interviewed key local figures, including youth workers and Cllr Sophie Linden, Cabinet Member for Crime, Sustainability and Customer Services at the Council.

Raymond was also interviewed himself by James Naughtie and Sarah Montague live on Radio 4's Today programme as part of the broadcaster's BBC Schools Report News Day on 24 March.

Raymond said of his experience: "I enjoyed doing it, because I wanted to find out about safety in Hackney and what the Council is doing to make it safer.

"Crime in Hackney is not really bad. If you get involved in it, it's hard to get out, but as long as you just mind your own business, choose the right friends, play with the right people, it's all right."

Raymond got the chance to research and air the stories that mattered to him

Animal Alphaboat weighs anchor

CHILDREN'S poet John Hegley performed for more than 70 youngsters and parents to celebrate World Poetry Day.

The audience packed into Hackney Central Library on 22 March to join in with the silliness and inventive wordplay of Hegley's 'Animal Alphaboat'.

Families were entertained with an hour of songs and even a unicorn created out of a plain handkerchief. There were no alligators in sight, but there were some parrots.

Mum Sarah Girvan, said: "John Hegley is awesome. We love the library – loads of great entertainment, free computer services and loads of brilliant books, of course!"

Jes Benstock's son Jacob read out the 'Dragon Poem', which was written by the Hackney Central Chatterbooks reading group.

Jes said: "It's great to see a legend like John Hegley coming to our local library. It's a fantastic resource – the librarians have really encouraged my son to read and enjoy books. Events like the Boys Book Club and performances like today's bring the kids closer to literature in a thoroughly enjoyable way."

Cabinet Member for Community Services, Cllr Jonathan McShane, said: "Events like this one with renowned poet John Hegley are just an example of what your local library can offer. As well as books, you can use the internet and it's free. If you need information about your local area or want a place to study then your library is the place to go. Why not join your local library and start taking advantage of what's on offer?"

World Poetry Day was created by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) and is a time to appreciate and support poets and poetry around the world.

The Handball Arena seats 6,000, which compares with 4,000 seats in Wimbledon's Centre Court; 5,000 at the Royal Albert Hall; and 23,000 of the O2 Arena

First glimpse of Handball Arena

Hackney Today got a sneak preview as the final touches were put to a 2012 arena set to become a major venue – and an exciting legacy for residents

THE finishing touches are being put to Hackney's new 6,000-seat stadium – the Handball Arena – completed ahead of the 2012 Games.

Mayor of Hackney, Jules Pipe, and four councillors were among the first residents to get a sneak preview of the impressive venue.

It will be London's third largest indoor arena, but with attention focusing on the Stadium, Aquatic Centre and Velodrome, it is one of the Olympic Park's hidden gems.

The building has more than 3,000sqm of external copper cladding – most of which is recycled – that will weather as it ages. Retractable seating means the arena will work equally well as a community sports venue as for concerts.

It was designed by Make architects, the company founded by Ken Shuttleworth, who is best known for his work on the 'Gherkin' in the City of London, while he was at Foster and Partners.

The group, which also included Deputy Mayor, Cllr Karen Alcock, Cabinet Members, Cllrs Jonathan McShane and Guy Nicholson, and Hackney Wick Cllr Jessica Webb, saw the finishing touches being put to the arena. Cllr Nicholson, Cabinet Member for Regeneration and 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games, said: "This is an impressive example of contemporary architecture at its best. Its quality and the speed at which it has been built are a credit to the British construction industry."

“ We will have in our borough a world-class purpose-built multi-use space to host local competitions and activities ”

Handball explained...

So how does handball work? Two teams of seven players battle it out in 30-minute halves. To score, players throw the ball into the opposite net. Players can pass or dribble – but are only allowed three paces between bounces.

international sporting, arts and performance events with 2012 legacy built in from the start.”

As well as handball, during the Olympic Games, the arena will also host fencing, modern pentathlon and Paralympic sport goalball. After the Games, the arena is expected to cater for community and elite indoor sports from basketball and badminton to wheelchair rugby and volleyball. There are also plans for a health and fitness club with changing facilities and a community café.

It's time to get creative

Hayley White, Group Director of Hoxton Hall, which encourages young people to take chances with their creativity

CLASSIC buildings, green new developments, world-class shows – the borough more than holds its own in the theatre stakes.

But one N1 venue has been quietly reinventing itself, determined to place itself as the number one community theatre for young Londoners.

“It’s about emerging talent and young people taking chances with their creativity for the first time,” says Hayley White, Hoxton Hall’s Group Director.

Offering a platform for young talent, the theatre focuses on participation for young people across the performing arts.

“The work is almost a by-product, we focus on using the creative arts to raise aspirations and give young people the confidence to promote themselves,” she adds.

And Hayley is prepared to back this up with stories about former and current attendees: from an under-performing pupil who secured a job only after their future employer realised a shared interest in theatre to a 19-year-old currently featuring in Simon Pegg’s alien comedy film, ‘Paul’.

The theatre also works with the Council’s youth service on anti-crime projects, such as music workshops. Hayley says: “Some children we work with are disengaged; a lot of them reach 16 and no one has ever asked them ‘what do you want to do, where do you want to be, what is it that inspires you?’ Because we have the right approach, engaging them, they get the best benefits.”

In recent years the Grade II listed building has played host to Katy B, The XX and hip hop showcase nights, and now has two music rooms, an art studio and a computer suite that young people raised the money for themselves.

As for what it shows, Hayley says: “We pride ourselves by having engaging projects that young people come to.”

This spawned its new Hoxton Select project, a commissioning programme that sees young members choose what they want to see on stage. And its talent agency, set up two years ago – Hoxton Street Casting – gives young members a chance to perform to agents.

Hayley explains: “Last financial year we got Hackney kids £50,000 paid work. Over 80 young people in excess of 80 jobs.”

Curriculum Vitae: Hayley White

1981	Born in Aylesbury
1997	Finished Radcliffe school in Milton Keynes
2004	General Manager of C venue at Edinburgh Fringe
2007	Group Director of Hoxton Hall
2008	Co-produced ‘Frank’s Closet’ at Hoxton Hall
2009	Hoxton Hall short-listed for Guardian ‘Charity of the Year’

“There are no barriers, you just need to be in the right place at the right time with a little support”

Not everyone can be on X Factor, she admits, but ‘there are no barriers, you just have to be in the right place at the right time with a little bit of support’.

After a difficult period in the early 2000s, when Arts Council funding was withdrawn, Hayley was brought in to fundraise and turn around the theatre’s commercial fortunes.

Just over a year later and to her surprise, the former theatre producer was asked to become group director. In under four years the hall’s turnover has jumped from £200,000 to £700,000; it has just received £1million from the Council as part of its ‘MyPlace’ project to create youth centres in the borough; and is now bidding for more grants to renovate the building.

THE GREEN GENIE

All your recycling questions answered

Q: I've just started clearing my garden, which got pretty scruffy and neglected over the winter. I know the Council collects garden waste and I've got a Brown Bin for that, but I am not sure what day of the week to put it out.

A: The Council collects garden waste from homes once a fortnight. Your collection will be on the same day of the week each fortnight, and Brown Bins should be put out by 7.30am at the front of your property.

If you have a lot of garden cuttings, you might want to order an extra Brown Bin or some compostable sacks.

The sacks are also useful for people without space to store a Brown Bin.

A calendar highlighting the collection days for each round is currently being delivered to properties, so look out for yours. Once collected, your garden waste will be composted and reused in Hackney's parks.

Muddying around

Greenfingered tenants and residents have worked together to improve Beecholme estate

RESIDENTS had a fine, muddy time transplanting three fruit trees from allotments on the Beecholme estate to North Millfield Park.

The pear, almond and cherry trees were moved to make way for a new greenhouse for the Beecholme and Casimir Community Growing Project which has helped improve the estate.

Tenants and Residents Association members arranged the handover with help from local tree care group, the Tree Musketeers, which donated tree stakes and guards; and the Community Tree Nursery on Hackney Marshes, which lent tools for digging and staking.

Council officers and parks staff also helped out by delivering the stakes, guards and a pile of wood chip mulch.

Cllr Sophie Linden, Cabinet Member for Crime, Sustainability and Customer

Services said: "Trees play a large part in enhancing our quality of life in busy cities and help preserve the eco-system."

"It's great to see a group of residents taking time out to plant these beautiful trees and I hope that it encourages more local people to get involved."

Urban beekeeping

MADNESS singer Suggs teamed up with a local music studio and a social enterprise to launch the Urban Beekeeping Project.

A hive has been installed on the roof of The Premises Studios, in Hackney Road, which is tended by young people who work with the Golden Company to produce, market and sell urban honey and related products. The initiative aims to encourage more people to take up beekeeping in cities, especially in London, where the bee population has halved since 2008.

Suggs, who is an experienced urban beekeeper, said: "I know how fascinating keeping these amazing creatures can be. Beekeeping is a crucial part of looking after our environment."

Julia Craik, Premises Managing Director, added:

"Honey-bees are in danger due to a virus which can wipe out whole colonies unless the bees are treated. This means that bees can no longer survive long in the wild, and need to be looked after and treated in hives."

Eco-action for Climate Week

HACKNEY City Farm hosted an event to show Londoners how to save money and help the environment during national Climate Week.

Visitors learnt how to make green improvements across a wide range of everyday activities including: energy and water use, travel, waste disposal, and shopping to improve household efficiency and save resources.

The free event on 26 March was held in partnership with sustainable living charity, Global Action Plan's EcoTeams programme. Penny Sturgess, from Global Action Plan, said: "Climate change, increasing stress

One Hackney City Farm resident was keen to be involved on the day on natural resources, growing mountains of rubbish, worsening air and water pollution – it can be difficult to know where to begin. Making changes is easier and fun when we do it together, with friends and neighbours. That's why forming or joining an EcoTeam works so well."

A household taking part in the EcoTeams programme can typically:

- improve energy and water management, reducing CO2 emissions by 17 per cent

- reduce bills by £170 a year
- reduce waste by 20 per cent, while increasing the proportion of rubbish that is recycled
- reduce water use by 15 per cent

One attendee said: "It's a really useful and structured approach: clear, well organised and up-to-date. I feel really empowered and supported to go and start an EcoTeam."

Students from Clapton Girls' Technology College brush up on their art skills for a community mural project (above); the mural will overlook Hackney Downs (inset)

A HACKNEY student business that won £500 for an idea to improve their community has secured a site to host a mural project.

Downsview Special School, E5, will be the location for the 'We Are Hackney' welcome mural, which will overlook Hackney Downs, and aims to promote a positive image of the borough.

It is the brainchild of Clapton Girls' Technology College students who set up their own company 'Tick for Change' in order to get the project off the ground. They plan to incorporate sign language into the design to promote inclusion for the special school's students.

Tick for Change has also organised a competition inviting local primary schools to submit drawings of some of their favourite things about Hackney to add to the wall art.

The group won the cash in a competition sponsored by charity Envision, which helps organise community projects by working with teenagers in schools.

The students will create a final mural design later in the year, with painting set to take place in July.

Tick for Change needs to continue its fundraising efforts to secure all the materials it needs.

News in brief

Slam dunk

THE Hackney Community College (HCC) men's basketball team has been crowned champion of the British Colleges Sports Cup. In a close final, the team beat Loreto College, Manchester, 92-81 to win the tournament and bring back the trophy to HCC for the sixth year in a row. HCC said its sports academies – most notably basketball – have notched up a string of successes over recent years. Academies for both men and women give students the opportunity to train and compete in high-profile competitions. Karen Nixon, HCC's Academies Administrator, said: "Having to set off at 6am on the long journey to Douglas Ellis Stadium, Birmingham, suddenly seems worthwhile when you were coming back with a minibus full of medals."

Tale of two cities

TWENTY-FIVE French pupils swapped the Parisian boulevards for the creative streets of Hackney in an exchange visit with Berger Primary School last month. Travelling from École Elementaire, the 10 to 11-year-olds were entertained by Berger's choir, met with guests including Cllr Rita Krishna, Cabinet Member for Children's Services, and visited the British Museum accompanied by the E9 school's pupils.

Last year, 20 Berger pupils visited École Elementaire and another trip is planned for June.

Berger's Deputy Headteacher, Jacqueline Reay, said: "It's important that our children learn about other countries and cultures. They have been delighted to meet our exchange school and find out about life in a Paris school. As well as many differences, they can also share many similarities and particularly around living in a bustling and diverse capital city."

A glowing school report

MAPLEDENE and Queensbridge Children's Centre has received the highest possible rating in its latest Ofsted inspection – 'outstanding' in all 17 indicators.

In a glowing report, the Government watchdog said: "Children achieve exceptionally well in all areas of learning."

The centre was also praised as 'an extremely safe environment where caring and trusting relationships are nurtured very effectively'.

Inspected in January, it was the first children's centre in Hackney to face a new Ofsted assessment, which covers education,

Pupils and teachers celebrate an outstanding Ofsted report care of children, extended services – such as parenting classes and Jobcentre Plus services – and the impact on the wider community. Sarah Bailey, Headteacher at Mapledene, said: "Getting this outstanding report feels absolutely fantastic. The whole team have worked so hard – it's good to have that recognised. We really know our parents and our families. They become part of the Mapledene community."

As well as day care and a nursery, parents can access free services at the centre, including a breakfast club, counselling from mental health charity MIND, Citizens Advice Bureau, a sewing club and English language classes.

Tricia Okoruwa, from The Learning Trust, said: "Hackney's children's centres do great work in reaching out to families and making sure that every child in the borough has the best possible start in life."

Cllr Rita Krishna, Cabinet Member for Children's Services, said: "Excellent quality early years provision gives children the best start possible, and this children's centre warrants this significant external recognition."

PREVIEW*Land of Kings*28-29 April, Various locations

Kingsland Road, Land of Kings – Dalston's home-grown, two-day music and arts mini festival returns for the third year bringing another batch of fine musicians and creatives in tow.

Festival season begins in East London – now we're officially in British Summer Time – and Land of Kings is offering bargain basement party deals to hear cutting edge music on the Shoreditch to Stoke Newington strip.

Some of N16 and E8's best-loved and little-known venues open up for the Good Friday end of the Easter bank holiday weekend. Rio Cinema and Vortex Jazz Club submit offerings alongside newer clubs and bars such as The Nest and The Alibi to celebrate the area's vibrant scene.

Performing acts are from Brass Roots, Moshi Moshi, Living in a Disco, Romy XX, Paul Thomson of Franz Ferdinand, Gwilym Gold, Ragga Twins and a host of artists you should know but probably don't.

The £16 price tag gives access to two days of basement parties, live music, theatre pop-ups and avant-garde art installations. Welcome to Dalston.

La Linea 11

6-19 April, Various locations

Big hitters play alongside a new generation of Latin performers from across Spain, Argentina, Mexico, Cuba and Brighton for this year's La Linea festival.

Taking place locally at Cargo and Barbican, prepare to dust down the maracas for a hotchpotch of reggae, rock, hip hop, house combined with Latin sounds at the music event.

Yasmin Levy sings smouldering flamenco and traditional Judeo-Spanish ladino at Barbican (6 April), with support from Melingo who is said to be making tango even 'cooler'.

Muchachito (pictured) plays at Cargo (8 April). The Spanish composer performs as a one-man band, combining rumba and swing, while painter Santo de Veracruz will be creating art in-sync with the music. Back at the Barbican (15 April), Ojos de Brujo fuse flamenco with hip hop, funk, punk and stray sounds from Barcelona. The band calls this mash up 'jip jop flamenkillo' and drives flamenco into the 21st century without losing the passion of the fiery music's roots.

Women of the year

Members of the Hackney Young Women's Group

By Berthe Biyak, YWG Member

Hackney Young Women's Group (YWG) organised a day of celebration to mark the centenary of International Women's Day.

Over 100 young women from across the borough attended the event at Hackney Town Hall on 10 March.

The first part of the day was a Public Speaking Championship in which eight teams debated whether women and men were really viewed as equals. The speeches were marked on content, style and effectiveness, and everyone who took part really enjoyed the experience and learnt about inequalities that still exist today.

The competition was won by Ruth Lyons, Chris Ann Jarrett, and Pamela Le Dang from Clapton Girls' Technology College.

YWG has achieved much in the last 12 months, including winning a Diana Award for our efforts to improve the community, and completing our Duke of Edinburgh Bronze Award.

But we knew that there were lots of other wonderful young women across the borough who needed to be recognised for their achievements too. So in the second part of the day, an award ceremony was held to honour young women of Hackney.

“I'm going to continue to work to make Hackney a better place for young women and all young people”

The 'Miss Motivated' award went to Reanne Anthony-Brown for her role in Hackney Youth Parliament (HYP); Syllestina Meade won the 'Miss Caring' award for her work as an Olympic and Paralympic ambassador; the 'Miss Do-A-Lot' award went to Rachel Piper, another HYP member; and the 'Miss Braveheart' award went to Kezia Aboagyewaa-Dwomoh, from Our Lady's Convent for overcoming difficulties.

Rebecca Samuel, 16, won the 'Young Woman of the Year' award. She said: "I am so delighted to have won, I can't believe it! As a member of HYP and YWG, I'm going to continue to work to make Hackney a better place for young women and all young people."

NEWS IN BRIEF

A great opportunity for all

FIVE young residents have been accepted for the latest intake of the BBC Work Experience.

The scheme is open to anyone aged 18 or over, who does not have a degree or is not studying for one, and offers placements of up to four weeks in different areas of the BBC including news, archives, sport, drama and talk shows. The initiative, which is funded by the BBC as part of their Olympic programme, will offer 70 placements a year until 2012. Hackney is guaranteed a number of these.

Cabinet Member for Regeneration and the 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games, Cllr Guy Nicholson, said: "This initiative with the BBC is a great example of how the 2012 Games can open doors and create opportunities beyond that of sport. These work placements can provide real avenues to getting jobs in Hackney's growing digital and creative economy." Hackney Community College student, Jacek Geisler, 21, had an exciting glimpse behind the scenes at BBC TV Centre in Shepherd's Bush during his four week work placement with BBC Sport last month. Jacek worked in the film library logging sports highlights. He said: "For a football match, for example, I had to summarise the important moments and then log them into the system so that producers could search for the goals that they wanted for their programmes."

The experience has left him even more determined to work in the industry. He added: "It was a very useful experience. It's amazing to observe the television production process and see whether you like it or not."

Young cricketers make history

BOROUGH cricket teams put in a good performance for the under 13s London Youth Games cricket competition.

Both the girls' and boys' teams finished ninth against 33 of the best U13 cricket teams in London during the competition at Harrow Leisure Centre.

Players showed great pride, skill and commitment to equal the best ever results achieved by a Hackney cricket team in the history of the London Youth Games.

Team members were chosen through open trials, training, and friendly competitions last year, which enabled 18 young people to represent their borough, and gave another 28 young people access to free coaching.

More than 60 per cent of both teams were a year younger than their opposition at the games, and will still be eligible to compete next year.

Cllr Jonathan McShane, Cabinet Member for Community Services, said: "Congratulations to our boys and girls on their performance against some of the best teams in London."

"With most members being younger than their competition, this is a fantastic achievement. I'm sure they will go from strength to strength in the London Youth Games."

Hackney is currently ranked 10th in the London Youth Games – after three events in this capital-wide annual competition – which showcases 43 events across 28 sports.

In nature's care

The carers discovered the sights and sounds of nature when on a trip to the Waterworks Nature Reserve

A GROUP of carers enjoyed a day of 'healing nature' in Lee Valley last month.

They were invited along to the Waterworks Nature Reserve to discover the calming sights and sounds of wildlife. The trip was part of the 'Wild Place Your Space' project, funded by the Heritage Lottery Fund, which enables residents to get more from the Lee Valley Regional Park.

The carers were treated to a bird-watching expedition, helped plant wildlife-friendly hanging baskets and enjoyed a walk in the park on 18 March.

The group was also given talks on wildlife and making the most of the area's green spaces.

Research has found that spending time surrounded by nature helps physical and mental well-being.

The Lee Valley is one of the biggest green spaces in Greater London, yet it is under-used by many local people.

Advice on site at St Joseph's

ADVICE on chronic and life limiting conditions is now available at St Joseph's Hospice, thanks to support from a national charity.

Macmillan Cancer Support is funding an advisor to inform people about the services on offer at St Joseph's, as well as specific conditions and self help groups.

New recruit Rachael Yearwood said: "My aim is to help address the misconceptions people have about hospices and provide as many people as possible with information to help make their journey, or that of a loved one, easier. Hospices can appear intimidating places and it can be very hard to confront these difficult issues. But this is a comfortable place where people can reflect and relax as well as learn things that will be helpful to them, their family or friends."

Rachael will be based in the hospice's Finding Space facility, which opened in 2009, after staff recognised some people needed more

News in brief

World TB Day events

STAFF and volunteers from Homerton hospital and the Council were out and about on World TB Day, promoting services and helping residents understand that the disease is curable.

Tuberculosis (TB) is a particular threat in areas like Hackney, where there are high-levels of deprivation. Dr Jose Figueroa, Deputy Director of Public Health at NHS City and Hackney, said TB most commonly affects the lungs. It is spread from person to person via droplets of saliva.

He added: "If you have symptoms – which include coughing up phlegm or blood, fevers, night sweats, feeling tired and unwell and weight loss – please contact your GP immediately."

Although TB cases have risen nationally since the 1980s, infections in Hackney fell by nearly 10 per cent between 2005 and 2009.

The awareness raising events took place on 24 March at the Hackney Service Centre, Homerton hospital and Dalston shopping centre. If you are worried about TB, and not registered with a GP, call Find-a-Doc: 020 7683 4645/4610, or e-mail: find-a-doctor@chpct.nhs.uk

Time to put your hands up

LIFELINE, a charity that works with people with drug and alcohol problems, is looking for volunteers.

They will be given the chance to learn more about alcohol and drug misuse, meet new people, gain valuable work experience and improve their CV.

The organisation, which is based in Hackney and Tower Hamlets, would like to hear from those interested in volunteering as art teachers, administrators, fundraisers and substance misuse workers, who are over 18 and prepared to work at least two days a week for six months.

Volunteer Co-ordinator, Cassandra Gordon, said:

"You will be able to work with an established national charity with a wide range of people and be able to give something back to the local community."

Volunteers will receive training, support and reasonable expenses. Closing date for applications is 12noon on 21 April. For more information call Cassandra Gordon on: 020 8985 3757 ext 220; e-mail: kassandra.gordon@lifeline.org.uk; or visit: www.lifelineproject.co.uk

The Mayor and Councillors

Councillors are elected by Hackney residents and serve for four years. The last borough elections were in May 2010. Councillors have a range of responsibilities, including helping to oversee the Council and its services. They hold advice surgeries where residents can meet their local representative and ask them to take up issues that may be of concern. Generally they can help with Council related matters, but if the issue is the responsibility of another person or organisation, councillors can often point people in the right direction and tell residents who they need to see. Hackney has 57 councillors representing areas called wards – illustrated in the map opposite.

To check which councillor covers your area, or confirm surgery times, call: 020 8356 3373. More info: www.hackney.gov.uk/l-mayor-cabinet-councillors.htm

Recipes straight from the ovens at Hoxton Apprentice

www.hoxtonapprentice.com

Apprentice Commis Chef, Anthony Twitchett, 23, had no previous experience within a working environment before joining Hoxton Apprentice. But he had always wanted to be a chef, and decided to try to build a career in the hospitality industry.

He said: "I am always up for a challenge and at Hoxton Apprentice I can show what I am made of. I love cooking and I have fun creating meals from scratch. I always take pride in what I do. With all the skills and techniques I have developed working here, I hope to move on and progress and work in a professional kitchen. My ultimate aim is to have my own restaurant."

Salmon, baby veg & mash with Champagne sauce

Serves 4

Preparation time
24hrs

Cooking time
30mins

Ingredients

- 100g each of baby leeks, baby carrots, Thai asparagus, baby onion & baby fennel, trimmed & sliced lengthways
 - 4 salmon fillets, skin on, about 150g each
 - 2 cartons of orange juice
 - 5 cardamom pods
 - 2 sprigs thyme & rosemary
 - 150ml honey
 - 150g mashed potato per portion
- For the sauce:
- 25g/1oz unsalted butter
 - 1 small shallot, finely chopped
 - 120ml/4fl oz champagne
 - 1 pint fish stock
 - ½ tsp caster sugar
 - 120ml/4fl oz double cream
 - 1 tbsp chopped fresh chives

Method

- Blanch veg for 2-3 mins

- Put orange juice into saucepan and add honey, herbs, cardamom pods and bring to boil. Reduce liquid by half and allow to cool. Add veg and leave for 24 hours
- Heat a non-stick frying pan and add olive oil. Fry fish, skin-side down, for 3 mins, then turn and cook for a further 3 mins in the oven. Remove & season
- Remove veg from orange mixture and heat with a tbsp of butter. Serve fish and veg with heated mash potato
- For the sauce, melt butter in a pan, add shallot and cook until soft. Add champagne, boil for 2 mins, then add stock and sugar. Boil until reduced by three-quarters
- Add half of cream, boil and reduce until sauce is thick enough to coat the back of a spoon. Whisk in remaining cream and pour around salmon. Sprinkle with chives
- Pour sauce over fish and vegetables

The Hoxton Apprentice is a social enterprise set up to train unemployed Hackney people – both in the kitchen and front of house.

Six-month apprenticeships prepare people for the workplace and give them the chance to gain an NVQ in Hospitality. Profits are returned to Training For Life, the charity which operates the restaurant, to deliver more training for unemployed people. If you would like to offer an apprentice a job, or become an apprentice yourself, call Ben Anderson on: 020 7749 2800.

What to scrutinise?

THERE is still time to have your say on what the Council's priorities from June onwards should be.

Hackney's scrutiny councillors want to know what matters most to people in the borough as part of an annual survey to shape the scrutiny agenda.

Scrutiny commissions are made up of councillors who work across party political lines to investigate issues of local concern, and they need to know what residents want to see reviewed.

To ensure the commissions select the right topics, they survey people who live, work and study in the borough every year. These focus on the areas of life in Hackney that the Council can influence, and where the scrutiny recommendations will make a difference.

Last year, residents said making the borough safer was their top priority, and as a result a review was completed on how the Council and police are working together to address gun and knife crime. Residents also said that education services were important, resulting in a commission that reviewed achievement at Key Stage 2.

Good scrutiny plays an important role in the development of better policies and improving performance, and can hold the Council and outside agencies to account, including the police and health service. The survey runs until 15 April.

To take part, visit: www.hackney.gov.uk/scrutiny-residents-survey; alternatively to request a hard copy of the survey, e-mail: scrutiny@hackney.gov.uk; or call: 020 8356 3341
